GOIN' AFTER MUSKY
My Dear Buck:

So you're out for the big ones, the "tiger" of the waters, the great old rascal that makes 'em all sit up and do the lid. You've hassled, trouted, and piked and panned a bit, now you feel like taking a whirl at the boss of the tribe, caused no doubt by the many tales that have been spun about this Villa of the weedbeds. No matter, old man, how harrowing the tale, the muskellunge is guilty of everything that has been said about him. And at that he still has a deck full of tricks. He has never sprung on the countless Waltons who try to give him the once-over. He has caused more nervous prostrations than the bright lights and take it from me, hooking a 20 or 30-pound musky unawares is no game for a nervous player. From the moment of the strike, it's a case of your wits against those of the musky, and you got to think fast or you'll find yourself reeling in a slack line, with the musky doing the famous fade-away.

The musky is a vicious cuss and he sure looks the part. He has a pair of jaws set with a bunch of sharp saw-like teeth, that would make a shark jealous; the lower jaw projecting beyond the upper, giving him a wolf-like appearance and he certainly is a wolf by nature. He feeds on all fish smaller than himself, even his own kind, and is not adverse to gobbling up a young duck or other aquatic bird that happens to pass his way. He will strike at most anything moving in the water, and once hooked he will put up a thrilling and savage fight equalled by no other fresh-water fish.

Where to Find Him
His favorite haunt is in about 5 to 15 feet of water near the weeds, water lilies or grass that grow in the water, or alongside of submerged rocks. He is a solitary fellow, don't make any friends, just lies around waiting for a piece of food to go swimming by, then he makes a lightning-like dart, snaps his powerful jaws shut on his victim and swims back to his station and gorges the eats, ready in a minute to take another foray. He always strikes a fish or lure sideways, and there is no special time when he is feeding, in fact he seems to be hungry all the time, but he is more active from eight to eleven in the morning and from four until dark. When the water is slightly roughened by the wind and breaking in small waves or an overcast day, makes good musky weather, but he may surprise you and strike your lure while you are trolling into shore to make a landing for the noonday lunch.

The Best Time
Musky fishing is very good in June, unless the season is extremely cold and backward, towards the tail end of July it slows up considerably, while August is the poorest month for the big chief. During "dog days" his teeth are in poor shape and you can hardly coax a strike out of him unless he feels so down in the mouth and mean that he strikes from pure cussedness. Like a snake shedding its skin and the deer its horns but nature packs in a new set by the first of September and the old boy is in a fine fighting humor for that month. By far the best musky fishing is to be had in September and October, when the chill night air seems to fill them with an extra supply of pep for the food hunt the next day. Even up into November is not too late for the big ones, but the bright good musky fishing it is hard to beat September and October.

Strikes in Snowstorm
A few seasons ago a well-known fisherman who has wet his line from Alaska to the Florida Keys caught a 38-pound musky late in October in northern Wisconsin in a blinding snowstorm. The wind was blowing a half gale and the strike was made on the final cast before running in to camp before the storm. It was some game to land this husky "granddaddy" of the bunch; the cold waters keved him up to the highest pitch and he made a series of rushes and dives that took keen work to hold him, while his breaks from the water included a bunch of musky tricks unheard of in the fish during the warmer days of summer and early fall. The air was so cold that after bringing the musky to the fisherman's hands were actually stiffened on to the rod.

Troll and Cast
In the past most of the boys have contented themselves with trolling for the musky, but the real sport of the game is to cast for them, using the same method as that of casting for bass. In trolling for musky a salk braided line of 20 to 30 pounds test is about right, while a six-thread Cuttyhunk linen line is preferred by some. For a trolling lure the spoon hook holds first place and is no doubt the best little all-round bait. Use a chub, shiner, black sucker or pork rind with a spoon as an added attraction, and if this don't seem to make 'em curious, put a strip of red flannel about six inches long on the hooks and let that wiggle through the water a bit as an enticer. Some mighty fine ones have been caught with this rig. Most beginners load the line with a whopping big spoon, even up to No. 14 size. Keep her down, old man, to No. 4 or No. 6 for the single spoon, and No. 3 or No. 4 for the tandem style. For a good stiff rod for the beginner make it a steel one, and the No. 33 Bristol will fill the bill for either casting or trolling for the musky. Of course if you are a double-dyed expert you can use your lighter rod and tackle, but unless one is an expert at handling the lighter tackle he had better stick to the slightly heavier stuff and feel more sure of the fish. A musky can sure make a fine outfit look like a junk shop if it's handled by an inexperienced fisherman. Troll in water about 8 to 12 feet deep, off the edges of the weedbeds and over the underwater weeds; also off the rock beds and points of land as well as quiet coves and bays. Keep your rod straight out behind the boat; if you hold it out over the side you put a strain on it that is unnecessary and had medicine for any rod.

In casting for the musky keep the boat about 50 feet off the casting waters, moving the boat as peacefully as possible and casting in towards the shore or feeding grounds. An all white or white and red head artificial minnow, or spoon and pork rind, frog or minnow makes a good casting lure. From the strike the fight is fast and gamy and you sure must keep the slack out of the line or he'll do a flop out of the water and corkscrew back on your line, which means farewell to the musky. DIXIE.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Any questions on fishing, tackle, or equipment will be answered. When detailed answers are desired, inclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Send queries to Dixie Carroll, care Sporting Editor.

Question: Kindly give me a table of the approximate length and weight of Bass. H. J. B. Answer: Following is table for weight of bass: 9 inches 1 pound; 10 inches, 1 pound 2 ounces; 11 inches, 1 pound 4 ounces; 12 inches, 2 pounds; 14 inches, 3 pounds; 15 inches, 4 pounds.

Question: What do you think of Senter-Brade line for casting? T. F. G. Answer: No doubt you refer to Senter-Brade Silk casting line No. 018, if so this is a fine line for bass casting, it is braided around an independent core and works very well on the reel.

Everybody—Send in information on nearby bass and general fishing waters. Name of stream or lake and how to get there, a couple good fellows want the info.

The digging of the basement for the hospital is completed and the masonry will commence.

Straws tell which way the wind blows, but they cannot tell which way it is going to blow and that is the great desideratum.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill. — "While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital." — Mrs. E. SHELTON, 5667 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, but with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

DRYS NOT TO MIX WITH PROGRESSIVES CHAFIN DECLARES

One Time Candidate Censures Hinshaw for Attempt at Amalgamation; Change of Name Proposed

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17.—Prohibitionists won't fuse with progressives in the latter's post season series at Chicago, August 6, Eugene W. Chafin, the Bryan of the prohibition party said today. Chafin, who was prohibition presidential candidate in 1908 and 1912, arrived from Tucson, Ariz., today. He drew room 711 at a local hotel, without smiling, launched an attack upon Virgil C. Hinshaw, for carrying on several weeks' correspondence with John M. Parker looking forward to a progressive-prohibition amalgamation, and then announced he would support Hinshaw if nominated. However, Chafin brought to town a Sulzer boom.

Hinshaw and Chafin are due for a clash tomorrow, when the project of changing the name of the party is slated for a pre-convention conference. Hinshaw's supporters are reminding each other that in the 1912 convention, C. E. Pitts, New York delegate, suggested the name be changed to "Progressive." Other factions favor the names, "American party," and "National party," with platforms modified on issues other than prohibition. Chafin gets heated up when interviewers make the proposal and balks. Raising $1,000,000 and mobilizing 5,000,000 voters is due for discussion tomorrow.

Plans to run Henry Ford for president and W. G. Calderwood, Minneapolis, for vice president, were all muzzed up today when Calderwood cited Ford's statement that he would not run. Calderwood had previously intimated his disinclination to run as vice with Ford.

Calderwood, too, has a strong old guard following, who would perhaps like to listen to him, if it wasn't for that persistent unconfirmed report that Ford promised $50,000 to a campaign fund if nominated.

Presidential timber today narrowed down to ex-Governor E. N. Foss, Massachusetts; William Sulzer, New York; J. F. Hanley, Indiana, and S. W. Haynes, Indiana.

MRS. JOHN MAILOR OF ONALASKA IS BURIED ON SUNDAY

The funeral of Mrs. John Mailor, relict of the late John Mailor, was held from the family residence in Onalaska, at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. The services at the home and the graveside were conducted by Rev. D. C. Jones pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Mailor left to mourn her loss and revere her memory eleven children six daughters and five sons. One son John died eight years ago at St. Paul. The children were all present at the obsequies yesterday being Mrs. F. H. Farr Mondovi, Wis.; Mrs. A. M. Beveridge, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Levi Woodward, Fort Smith, Ark.; Mrs. Charles A. Seidlitz, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. A. R. Kempter, La Crosse; Miss Catherine Mailor, Onalaska; W. P. Mailor, Galeville, Wis.; Thomas, James and Robert Mailor of Fort Smith, Ark.; Harry Mailor, Kansas City, Mo. There were also present at the services eight daughters- and sons-in-law, and nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Mailor was born in Perth, Scotland, in 1843, and came to this country in 1865, with her family, shortly after the close of the war. For years the family resided at Alma, Wis., afterward moving to La Crosse, and later to Winona, Minn. Eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Mailor purchased a home at Onalaska, where the closing years of their long and happy married life were happily passed.

Following the death of her husband three years ago, almost to a day, Mrs. Mailor passed a portion of each year in visits with her children. She returned to Onalaska but a few weeks ago from an extended trip south, and was in apparent excellent health until ten days before her demise.

REFUSE TO SEARCH FOR BODY

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17.—When Bernie Schaeffer, 31, artillery militiaman, who came here from Davenport, Iowa, drowned half way between St. Paul and Minneapolis, police of the two towns declined to search for the body, because the scene of the drowning was on the dividing line.

"Civilization" is appearing at a local theater, if nowhere else on the earth's surface.

VETERANS IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE MAY ATTEND THE ENCAMPMENT AND GET PAY

WASHINGTON, July 17.—President Wilson today issued an executive order allowing civil war veterans in government service a leave of absence with full pay so they may attend the Grand Army encampment in Kansas City, Mo., August 26 to September 3.

TWO BOYS DROWN

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, July 17.—James, 14, and William, 12, sons of Professor and Mrs. W. I. Kelfey, were drowned while wading in the Snake river.

While the men do the fighting, would it not be a good idea to let the women do the voting?

SEEKS HONORS IN ORATORY CONTEST

Miss Hazel Parks.

Miss Hazel Parks is the only girl among nine contestants from as many colleges who will take part in an oratorical contest at St. Paul, Minn., on the evening of July 17. Each contestant will advance his or her theory as to the best means of destroying the liquor traffic. Miss Parks' subject is "The Last Defense." She is a student of Hastings college, Hastings, Neb.

WILL HARDTACK FLIRTATION SEND MANY WAR BRIDES?

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 17.—Wisconsin's "Shooting Third" has arrived. The first section reached here at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, after delays occasioned by a wreck ahead and the killing of a flagman at Port Worth. Other divisions followed promptly. The men attended church at 7 p. m.

The men arrived in good condition and made camp quickly. It is understood that drill will begin on Tuesday.

Story of Journey
ABOARD WISCONSIN TROOP TRAIN, ENID, Oklahoma, July 14.—From Wisconsin to Texas, through the Badger state, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma, the boys of the Wisconsin brigade have left their "cards" with the girls who flocked to the trains, and even though no "war brides" result from this mobilized flirtation, Chaplain Longbrake's little trunk of stationery will suffer inroads in consequence of the broadside of letters to follow.

The "Cards" were the addresses of the khaki boys, written on hard-tack.

Excepting for these flirtations and extreme heat there has been nothing to note in the journey. In Oklahoma Friday the thermometer registered over 180, but the troops bore it well.

After leaving Chicago the first stop was Eldon, Iowa, after which we did not pause until ice was taken on at Trenton, Mo. Two hundred people came to the trains to cheer us on, and the soldiers began the process of "scrapping acquaintances" with young women. The water taken on here is oily and looks like the Mississippi after a storm. The next big stop was Topeka, Kan.

Kansas looks very good—fine crops all the way. At Horton we took on supplies and visited with 300 citizens who flocked to the train. We passed Topeka in the night. At Caldwell, led by the regimental band, we paraded the city, after which we were permitted to roam the town at will for twenty minutes.

We entered Oklahoma at 11:30 a. m. Friday, and struck "100 in the shade." At Enid we were fed by the Red Cross girls. They gave us stamped post cards, cigars and cigarettes, and we gave them "our cards."

GERMAN VOLHYNIAN FORCE RETIRES ACROSS THE LIPA

BERLIN, July 17.—German troops opposing the Russian advance in Volhynia have withdrawn behind the river Lipa, sixty miles northeast of Lemberg, it was officially admitted this afternoon.

The retirement was made in order to shorten the German line, the war office stated, and was effected without hindrance to the Germans.

A Russian attack southwest of Lutsk fortress was checked.

PREDICTS GOVERNMENT WILL TAKE OVER ROADS IF STRIKE IS CALLED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 17.—Declaring that the United States government is better prepared now than ever to operate the railroads of the country, J. J. Keegan, commissioner of the department of labor, predicted the government would take over the roads should the four great railroad brotherhoods call a strike of their members.

Keegan said that once the government took charge of the roads the men would go to work immediately. He based this assertion on the fact the government had long since recognized the eight hour day, one of the bones of contention in the present controversy between men and employers.

FARMERS' HELPER DEAD

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17.—Geo. S. Loftus, inspiration for the farmers' movement that swept North Dakota in a recent state primary, is dead at his home here today.

"I wanted one that would hold a watermelon occasionally without putting everything else on the floor."

THEY ALL DEMAND IT

La Crosse, Like Every City and Town in the Union, Desires It. People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies today that relieve, but do not cure. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results to thousands. Here is N. La Crosse evidence of their merit.

John Sokolik, painter, 1106 Avon street, N. La Crosse, says: "My kidneys were weak and acted very irregularly. My back ached and I had pains through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up in good shape." (Statement given October 8th, 1910.)

THE CURE LASTED
OVER TWO YEARS LATER, Mr. Sokolik said: "I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again as the cure they made in my case has been permanent."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Sokolik has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

CHANCELLOR AGAIN GAINS SUPPORT OF GERMAN JOURNALS

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, July 17.—Leading German newspapers are now rallying to the support of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, who has been under attack by the advocates of unrestricted submarine.

They deny that the chancellor's peace discussions have weakened the position of Germany and reassert their confidence in the defeat of the present allied offensive.

For the most part prominent Germans are not discussing peace at this time, preferring to await the outcome of the allied offensive.

All the critics believe that the British will be unable to recover from their early failures to make great headway, though it is realized that the fighting is not over. The Cologne Gazette points out, for instance, that the British have huge reserves in Flanders, enabling them to attack continually with fresh troops.

Major Morant, referring to the operations at Verdun, declares that the Germans will continue to follow their present policy of defense by attack.

SEND SOLDIERS MONEY AND "LOVE" AT ONE-HALF COST

Appreciating the fact that many of the boys failed to reckon on the high cost at the border of some of the comforts and conveniences which are not included in the provisions which Uncle Sam makes for his soldiers—their relatives and friends will doubtless be interested in the fact that the Western Union Telegraph company has made arrangements for a speedy transfer of money by telegraph for parties in the service, at half the usual rates.

The provision is the more attractive from the fact that messages of affection, cheer, etc., may be incorporated in the transfer at a small additional cost.

GARRANZA TROOPS MOVE TO OPPOSE ONCOMING BANDITS

EAGLE PASS, Texas, July 17.—Garranza troops at Pecos, Texas and Monclovia have moved south to oppose large Villista forces marching toward the border, it was learned from Mexican sources today.

WEATHER
—U.S. Weather Bureau—

Sunrise tomorrow, 4:39 a. m.
Sunset tomorrow, 7:43 p. m.
Yesterday's Temperatures
High, 88; low, 74; precipitation, .01.

Forecasts
For Wisconsin: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday with thunder-showers west portion this afternoon or tonight and in northeast portion tonight or Tuesday. Warmer north portion tonight and in east portion Tuesday.

For Minnesota: Local thunder-showers this afternoon or tonight. Tuesday partly cloudy. Warmer tonight in extreme east portion and near Lake Superior Tuesday. Cooler northwest portion Tuesday.

For Iowa: Generally fair and continued warm tonight and Tuesday.

Weather Conditions
Showers have occurred in nearly all sections during the past 24 hours and were light except in southwestern Utah and in the vicinity of Bismarck where over an inch was recorded.

The temperature continued warm, east of the Rocky mountains, except the Lake Superior district where it is moderately cool.

An area of low pressure, central north of Montana, extends southward into Arizona, while areas of relatively high pressure are central in the Lake Superior district and off the north Pacific coast.

These pressure conditions indicate thundershowers for this section this afternoon or tonight followed by generally fair weather Tuesday. There will be no material change in temperature.

The Searchlight

FOUR VALUABLE MICE
Four mice were recently listed as the most valuable shipment in the cargo of a vessel coming from London to New York. These mice had been kept under observation in a London research laboratory because their ancestors were inoculated with cancer germs over fifteen years ago. They have been studied for the purpose of noting the hereditary probabilities of the disease. Because of the possibility of the London laboratory being destroyed by German bombs it was deemed advisable to send the mice to New York in order that the knowledge already gained might not be lost. They are now carefully housed in the Crocker cancer laboratory connected with Columbia university.

THE FIRST TEST OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The first great test of the fiber of the Chamber of Commerce is the payment of dues. Bills are going forward today. The manner of paying dues is the infallible distinguishing between the old style civic body and the modern chamber of commerce.

As in the old form of organization all business was done in a slack manner and at the convenience of the members, with more or less grudging gratuity, so the dues were paid with the irregularity and perhaps reluctance attached to donations.

The new chamber is a very different creature. It is a BUSINESS organization. Its work is done with that precision, care and timely devotion characteristic of the very best modern business houses. Its dues are paid, not for half considered projects of debatable wisdom that are anybody's business and hence nobody's business, but for definite service guaranteeing specific advantages to the member.

In a word, the old way was the course of weak sentimentality supported by charity; the new way is the field of efficient business methods purchased by the member as he buys his stock of goods, fuel and insurance. The member of the modern chamber of commerce puts his dues in his annual budget, definitely fixes the time of payment, sends his check as promptly as were it for light, stationery or any other essential of his private business.

It remains to be seen whether the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce is a MODERN organization, or merely a mushroom grown of the fertility of a passing impulse. It can't succeed if it pays a modern secretary a modern salary and then compels him to spend most of his time collecting dues. It can't succeed if it pays dues tardily and grudgingly, as though charity. It can succeed only if its members conduct themselves as men who have bought a valuable thing at a fair price, the debt for which they are ready and willing to meet promptly at maturity.

We are creatures of habit. We have a bad habit to overcome. We have a new habit to form. The manner in which we meet the first dues in the Chamber of Commerce will go far toward establishing our permanent habit in the matter, and upon that habit depends the success of the machinery we have purchased. The individual who is negligent in the matter is not only establishing a bad precedent for himself, but he is setting a bad example. Let it be known that a majority of the members promptly met their dues, and the others will follow quickly; let it be noised about that dues are coming in slowly, and neglect and evasion will be encouraged and may become a fatal characteristic of the membership.

The Chamber of Commerce is ready to get to work. It can not work without funds any more than can an engine work without fuel. We can't afford to tie up the energies of our paid officials in the petty labors of a collection agency. Let's be brisk, reliable, businesslike. Let's give the Chamber of Commerce a chance.

MR. COLMAN'S GOOD RECORD

The resignation of Lucius C. Colman as secretary of the fire and police commission terminates a period of service that has been as valuable to La Crosse as the legal limitations upon the initiative of that body permitted him to render. Always the center of police department quarrels, the commission is charged with unpleasant and often thankless duties, and that Mr. Colman's generosity was equal to so lengthy assumption of the burden is explicable only as based upon a sense of public obligation. Therefore, while his further service would have been highly desirable, he can not fairly be begrudged release from the exactions of the office.

Mr. Colman was particularly valuable as a commissioner at times when factionalism made its appearance in the board. He has no sympathy with these lines of division, and as he had the force of character necessary to hold them in check, he served as a balance wheel during many trying situations in which the dignity of the city was in jeopardy. That he had the confidence and esteem of his colleagues the better equipped him to control difficult situations, and his judicial temperament enabled him to be considerate as well as just. Not in every case have we agreed with Mr. Colman, but upon the broad view of his administration we believe the facts warrant the assertion that La Crosse has had no more satisfactory public official.

AN OFFICIAL NEW TO PUBLIC SERVICE

The appointment of Mr. C. W. Tisdale as commissioner of fire and police to succeed Lucius C. Colman, resigned, brings to the public service a new factor who can be judged only by standards of private life and private business. Judged by these, Mr. Tisdale seems to afford promise. In his own affairs he has achieved success. His private life is clean. He is intelligent and capable of mastering and holding in proper proportion the essentials of fire and police administration. He enters upon his duties, we believe, with no entanglements of faction or clique such as too often seek to control these departments. He has the honor to succeed an able member, a circumstance which affords him a splendid opportunity for influence and service. We shall watch his development with interest and confidence.

THE DIVISION OF ART HONORS

Orson Lowell, the famous cartoonist, may experience considerable pride upon being credited with "November Afternoon", Peyraud's splendid landscape, now the property of the La Crosse Art association; Peyraud may like the notion that he is capable of the delightful humor of Lowell's cartoon, "1913", published over his name. However, at the risk of occasioning disappointment for both gentlemen, we feel impelled to restore, to Mr. Lowell his cartoon, to Mr. Peyraud his landscape. The lines in the TRIBUNE's art story Saturday, while not exactly "pied", were badly twisted.

Too Many

With the coming of the twins the entire household arrangements were sadly disorganized. Master Bobby and Miss Dorothy were relegated to the background, where they moped and sulked.

Bobby, more militant than his sister, was scouting through the upper halls one morning when he discovered the twins being prepared for their bath. Having in mind the fate of several litters of kittens within his knowledge, he rushed to the head of the stairs, and, beckoning to his sister, cried in a hoarse whisper: "Dottie, come on up, quick! They're goin' to drown one of 'em."

Well?"

"Then I say my life was once saved by parachutes."

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE
(By Niksbah)

THE CHICAGO ART INSTITUTE

To get to the Chicago Art Institute you must cross Michigan avenue at Adams street, an undertaking more hazardous than it sounds. You stand on the curbstone and gaze at the bulky gray building with its purple and yellow pennants and huge bronze lions, and then you gaze at the countless automobiles streaming past you and decide to remain where you are. But just at that moment a large policeman raises an immense white glove and you walk serenely to the other side while the automobiles stand champing at their crank-shafts.

Once in the building all mundane worries leave you and you wander down the corridors and through the rooms in the dream-crowded world of art, where sculpture and tapestries, exquisite porcelains and quaintly carved musical instruments are forever mutely telling the story of their creators, who realized beauty and so became immortal. Or you ascend the shallow stairs to the second floor and stroll among the pictures pausing longest in the Inness room, whose misty landscapes have a peculiarly restful charm for the footsore sightseer.

Before you leave you go down to Blackstone Hall and peer into the school entrance, impassably barred by a blond and impersonal guard, and see strange creatures in dirty smocks or paint coats wandering down the corridor or disappearing in two behind the lockers.

The school entrance, however, is the only door about the Art Institute that is barred, for it is a truly democratic place. On Sundays especially it holds more different classes of people than any other spot in Chicago. In the afternoon there are concerts in Fullerton Hall by members of the Symphony orchestra, and in the evening grand opera lectures. Between times the eager dilettante can go to the Ryerson Library and read about art, or betake himself to the cafeteria in the basement and there satisfy his less artistic nature.

And when at last he leaves, steeped in culture and crosses Michigan avenue again he stands on the curbstone for a moment and looks back to the building, dark against the sky, and thanks it in his heart. For the Art Institute of Chicago is more than an institute. In many people's lives it is an oasis of beauty.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

By ETHEL HUESTON

The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

This aroused Prudence's ire on her sister's behalf, and she squared her shoulders defiantly. For a while, Fairy was utterly subdued. But thinking it over to herself, she decided that after all there was nothing absolutely shameful in a sixteen-year-old girl writing sentimental verses. Silly, to be sure! But all sixteen-year-olds are silly. We love them for it! And Fairy's good nature and really good judgment came to her rescue, and she smiled at Prudence with her old serenity.

The meeting progressed, and the business was presently disposed of. So far, things were not too seriously bad, and Prudence sighed in great relief. Then the Ladies took out their sewing, and began industriously working on many unmentionable articles, designed for the intimate clothing of a lot of young Methodists confined in an orphan's home in Chicago. And they talked together pleasantly and gaily. And Prudence and Fairy felt that the cloud had lifted.

But soon it settled again, dark and lowering. Prudence heard Lark running through the hall and her soul misgave her. Why was Lark going upstairs? What was her errand? And she remembered the wraps of the Ladies, upstairs, alone and unprotected. Dared she trust Lark in such a crisis? Perhaps the very sight of Prudence and the Ladies' Aid would arouse her better nature, and prevent catastrophe. To be sure, her mission might be innocent, but Prudence dared not run the risk. Fortunately she was sitting near the door.

"Lark!" she called softly. Lark stopped abruptly, and something fell to the floor.

"Lark!"

There was a muttered exclamation from without, and Lark began fumbling rapidly around on the floor talking incoherently to herself.

"Lark!"

The Ladies smiled, and Miss Carr, laughing lightly, said, "She is an attentive creature, isn't she?"

Prudence would gladly have flown out into the hall to settle this matter, but she realized that she was on exhibition. Had she done so, the Ladies would have set her down forever after as thoroughly incompetent—she could not go. But Lark must come to her.

"Lark!" This was Prudence's most awful voice, and Lark was bound to heed.

"Oh, Prue," she said plaintively, "I'll be there in a minute. Can't you wait just five minutes? Let me run up-stairs first, won't you? Then I'll come gladly! Won't that do?"

Her voice was hopeful. But Prudence replied with dangerous calm: "Come at once, Lark."

"All right, then," and added threateningly, "but you'll wish I hadn't."

Then Lark opened the door—a woeful figure! In one hand she carried an empty shoe box. And her face was streaked with good rich Iowa mud. Her clothes were plastered with it. One shoe was caked from the sole to the very top button, and a great gash in her stocking revealed a generous portion of round white leg.

Poor Prudence! At that moment, she would have exchanged the whole parsonage, bathroom, electric lights and all, for a tiny log cabin in the heart of a great forest where she and Lark might be alone together.

And Fairy laughed. Prudence looked at her with tears in her eyes, and then turned to the wretched girl.

"What have you been doing, Lark?"

The heart-break expressed in the face of Lark would have made the angels weep. Beneath the smudges of mud on her cheeks she was pallid, and try as she would, she could not keep her chin from trembling ominously. Her eyes were fastened on the floor for the most part, but occasionally she raised them hurriedly, appealingly, to her sister's face, and dropped them again. Not for worlds would she have faced the Ladies! Prudence was obliged to repeat her question before Lark could articulate a reply. She gulped painfully a few times—making meanwhile a desperate effort to hide the gash in one stocking by placing the other across it, rubbing it up and down in great embarrassment, and balancing herself with apparent difficulty. Her voice, when she was able to speak, was barely recognizable.

"We—we—we are making—mud images. Prudence. It—it was awfully messy. I know, but—they say—it is such a good—and useful thing to do. We—we didn't expect—the—the Ladies to see us."

"Mud images!" gasped Prudence, and even Fairy stared incredulously. "Where in the world did you get hold of an idea like that?"

"It—it was in that—that Mother's Home Friend paper you take Prudence." Prudence blushed guiltily. "It—it was modeling in clay, but—we haven't any clay, and—the mud is very nice, but—Oh, I know I look just—horrible. I—I—Connie pushed me in the—puddle—for fun. I—I was vexed about it. Prudence, honestly, I—I—was chasing her, and I fell, and tore my stocking—and—and—but, Prudence, the papers do say children ought to model, and we didn't think of—getting caught."

Another appealing glance into her sister's face, and Lark plunged on, bent on smoothing matters if she could. "Carol is—is just fine at it, really. She—she's making a Venus de Milo, and it's good. But we can't remember whether her arm is off at the elbow or below the shoulder."

An enormous gulp, and by furious blinking Lark managed to crowd back the tears that would slip to the edges of her lashes. "I—I'm very sorry, Prudence."

"Very well, Lark, you may go. I do not really object to your modeling in mud, I am sure. I am sorry you look so disreputable. You must change your shoes and stockings at once, and then you can go on with your modeling. But there must be no more pushing and chasing. I'll see Connie about that tonight. Now—"

"Oh! Oh! Oh! What in the world is that?"

This was a chorus of several Ladies' Aid voices,—a double quartette at the very least. Lark gave a sharp exclamation and began lurching hurriedly about her on the floor.

"It's got in here—just as I expected," she exclaimed. "I said you would be sorry, Prue—Oh, there it is under your chair, Mrs. Prentiss. Just wait—maybe I can shove it back in the box again."

This was greeted with a fresh chorus of shrieks. There was a hurried and absolute vacation of that corner of the front room. The Ladies fled, dropping their cherished sewing, shoving one another in a most unladies-Aid-like way.

And there, beneath a chair, squatted the cause of the confusion, an innocent, unhappy, blinking toad!

"Oh, Larkie!"

"It's all right, Prue, honestly it is," urged Lark with pathetic solemnity. "We didn't do it for a joke. We're keeping him for a good purpose. Connie found him in the garden—and—Carol said we ought to keep him for Professor Duke—he asked us to bring him things to cut up in science, you remember. So we just shoved him into this shoe box,

SING A SONG OF EUROPE
Sing a song of Europe,
Highly civilized,
Four-and-twenty nations,
Wholly hypnotized.
When the battle's open
The bullets begin to sing,
Isn't that a silly way
To act for any king?

The common people at the front and—we thought we'd keep him in the bath-tub until morning. We did it for a good purpose, don't you see we did? Oh, Prudence!"

Prudence was horribly outraged, but even in that critical moment, justice insisted that Lark's arguments were sound. The professor had certainly asked the scholars to bring him "things to cut up." But a toad! A live one!—And the Ladies' Aid. Prudence shivered.

"The Fool's Game," a Horsley-Mutual photoplay to be released soon, presents Crane Wilbur in what is said to be a powerful role. There are but two other principals in the cast, Mae Gaston and John Oaker, and with Mr. Wilbur they enact this story:

A middle-aged millionaire returns to his home unexpectedly one night to find his wife in the embrace of a friend. Acting upon the theory that enforced familiarity breeds contempt, he locks their wrists together with a pair of handcuffs and drives them under the lash of a whip to a secluded spot in the mountains, leaving them to the consequences of their wrong doing. Mr. Wilbur is seen as the millionaire.

Questions Put to Would-Be Actors

When actors or actresses join a producing company they are given a slip containing these questions, which they must answer in detail: What were your early ambitions? Give history of your youth. What was your first position? What was your first theatrical position? How did you get it?

What important theatrical stars and companies have you worked with? How, and when and where did you first get into pictures? Have you written scenarios?

In what towns and cities are you well and favorably known to the public? What was your great adventure (not necessarily love affair)? Are you fond of sports? If so, what kind? Can you drive an automobile or ride a horse? Ever held any championship of any kind?

What are the things in your life of which you are particularly proud? Are you married? If so, have you any children? What is your age? Give dates.

Anything of further interest concerning yourself. Do not be bashful. If you are a genius, say so.

Stuffy McInnis.

Stuffy McInnis, the Athletics first sacker, has hit a batting slump that is remarkable after a long record of consistent hitting. Since 1910 McInnis has had a yearly average above the .300 mark, with little change from season to season. His best season was 1912, when he hit for .327. So far this year he has not been able to do much better than .200.

RESIDENT HERE FOR QUARTER OF CENTURY DEAD

Robert Bartschenfeld, well known resident here for 27 years, died at 4 o'clock Sunday morning of an ailment of the heart which caused his retirement from business last January. Mr. Bartschenfeld was for many years proprietor of the German Village saloon at Fourth and Jay streets. He was 48 years old.

Mr. Bartschenfeld was a native of West Prussia, Germany. He came to this country while a young man. He spent practically his entire life in the United States in La Crosse. For a number of years his home has been at 1021 Jackson street.

He was a member of the Frohsinn Singing society, the Third and Eighth Ward Aid societies, and the Eagles. He is survived by his wife and three children, as well as his aged mother, who lives in Germany. Funeral services will be held at the residence Tuesday afternoon.

BANK RESOURCES FOR STATE INCREASED BY THIRTY-SIX MILLIONS

MADISON, Wis., July 17.—Wisconsin banks have resources totalling $276,095,713.03, according to the monthly statement issued by the banking department today. This is an increase of $32,061,249.46. The increase for the same period, from May 30 to June 30, in 1914-15, was $4,156,204.70, which indicates the record breaking prosperity of Wisconsin at the present time.

Loans and discounts of the state banking institutions amount to $186,899,826.06, an increase of $5,000,000 over last year.

SOCIETY

Y. W. C. A. ANNOUNCEMENT

The Y. W. C. A. will give an ice cream social on their lawn, corner of Cass and Fourth streets, Wednesday evening, July 19th, from 7:30 till 10.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hankerson and daughter, Miss Jeannette Hankerson returned Saturday from an eastern trip. Mrs. Hankerson and daughter, Miss Ellen, stopped over Sunday to visit Mrs. Southern in Chicago, a former La Crosse resident.

Mr. Ben Brindley of Chicago is spending his vacation with his parents, Judge and Mrs. John Brindley.

Mrs. Austin Cargill of Milwaukee is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. George H. Ray.

Mr. and Mrs. Knebes and sons of Miami Fla., were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. Frank Sisson, having motored here from Florida.

Mr. Leland Covey of Minneapolis was a week-end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cunningham.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Clendenning, who have been visiting for a number of weeks at the home of Mrs. Clendenning's father, F. P. Hixon, have returned to their home in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. I. U. Sears of Davenport, Ia., who have been guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Burgess, left today for Chicago.

Woman Journalist an Authority on History

Agnes C. Laut, Canada's best known woman journalist, and an authority on Canadian history in general and the Hudson Bay region in particular, is a native of Ontario, but in early life moved to Winnipeg, where she attended college and later began newspaper work on the Manitoba Free Press. Subsequently she became a contributor to other Canadian, American, and English papers and magazines, and for some years was one of the editors of Outing. Her enthusiasm for outdoor life led her to make many adventurous trips to little known regions of the Canadian northland, and on one occasion she made the 2,000-mile canoe trip down the Saskatchewan river from Edmonton to Lake Winnipeg. Her writings deal chiefly with the fascinating life of the Canadian wilds. At present she owns an estate in Wassau, Dutchess county, N. Y., and considers this her home, but she travels much in Canada and the United States investigating contemporary problems for the leading magazines.

Daring Models at the Chicago Style Show

CHICAGO, July 15.—Gangway for the style show in Chicago August 7, and five days more. Listen to this announcement from the promoters:

"Enticing models garbed in daring bathing suits will be exhibited arising out of a fountain built for this particular stunt."

The word "daring" is used advisedly, even in view of the existing fashions in bathing suits in Chicago and Atlantic City, which leave little to the imagination. Of course other models in clothing will be shown, but the bathing suit announcement is expected to crowd Chicago-bound trains.

Women Prominent In Dry Convention

Women will play a conspicuous part in the coming National Prohibition convention at St. Paul, opening July 19. A determined effort will be made in the interests of woman's suffrage, and the women delegates will offer a plank declaring woman suffrage to be a national issue and endorsing the Susan B. Anthony federal amendment.

BORDER TROUBLE NEAR END THINKS HIGH OFFICIAL

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Villa is dead, General Pershing's troops will be out of Mexico within a month and the national guard back home within three months, a high war department official said today.

Villa's name is being used by minor leaders to inspire fear among Carranzistas, the official declared. He said Carranza was stronger today in Mexico than he ever had been.

Army men in touch with border and Mexican interior conditions said today there isn't a chance in a thousand of further trouble with Mexico, either by a repetition of the Parral and Carrizal incidents or by bandit raids.

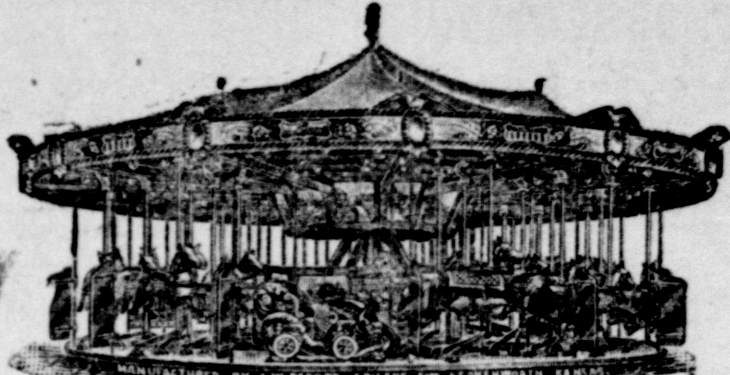

THIRTY THOUSAND PEOPLE MARCH IN MILWAUKEE'S GREAT PREPARE PARADE

MILWAUKEE, July 17.—20,187 people marched Saturday in Milwaukee's preparedness parade, one of the greatest functions of its kind ever held in this country. The marching started at 1:55 and it was 5:30 before the last division passed. Governor E. L. Philipp witnessed the parade.

"DEUTSCHLAND" BILLIE BURKE AT THE MAJESTIC

The Press says nice things about Billie Burke in "Peggy":

"Miss Billie Burke, as was to be expected, is excellently fitted for screen work. "Peggy" also, is a rattling good film. In its humorous moments, it is far beyond the ordinary, and it is at these times Miss Burke is at her best. William Thompson, who has not more than two or three superiors in the land, plays the Scotch uncle to perfection."—New York Tribune.

Miss Billie Burke in "Peggy" will be at the Majestic next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Upon next Tuesday and Wednesday the Majestic will show the motion picture of the Deutschland (The German submarine), as it arrived in the Baltimore harbor after a 3,000 mile trip across the Atlantic. It also shows the close views of the boat, the captain and crew and other points of interest about this history making event.

This attraction is given in addition to the Thomas Ince masterpiece, "Peggy", with Miss Billie Burke.

CASEMENT APPEAL IS ARGUED TODAY

LONDON, July 17.—Sir Roger Casement's appeal from his conviction of treason, carrying with it the death sentence, was argued before Justice Darling and four associate justices of the court of criminal appeal today.

The actions described in the indictment did not constitute a statutory offense. He argued further that the definition of treason given to the jury by Lord Chief Justice Reading was inaccurate.

WHAT YOUR NERVES NEED

Whatever medication, whatever renewed strength and vigor can be imparted to the nerves must reach them through the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a nerve tonic but they act on the nerves through the blood, enabling the blood to carry to the nerves the elements needed to build them up. Neuralgia, sciatica, sick headache and a number of more severe nervous troubles are properly treated by building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are often entirely corrected in this way.

If you are nervous you can help yourself by refusing to worry, by taking proper rest, sleep and vacations, by avoiding excesses and by taking out-door exercise. For medicine take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the non-alcoholic tonic.

Sufferers from nervous disorders who have been taking treatment without benefit should investigate the tonic method. Write today to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System." It will be sent free on request.

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE ELEPHANT'S REAL DISPOSITION
By Frederick J. Haskin
NEW YORK, N. Y., July 17.—The elephant, who enjoys an enviable reputation for intelligence and amiability, has been basking in a public approval he does not deserve. He is really a dangerous and treacherous beast in captivity, and while he is intelligent enough, he is prone to misapply the brains that nature gave him.

At least, such has been the experience of the zoo authorities, according to William T. Hornaday, director and general curator of the Bronx zoo here. The story of Minnie, the circus elephant, who carefully lifted the trainer's little boy to safety on her back before she chastised the trainer who had beaten her, is not accepted with enthusiastic credulity by the zoo keepers. Such a thing may be true of circus elephants, they admit, but certainly not of those residing in a zoo, who are never remarkably docile and as old age comes on develop a tremendous ambition to kill a keeper.

Only last summer, for example, it became necessary to shoot Gunda, the large Indian elephant of the park, because he became so unmanageable. According to the popular version of the elephant story, Gunda should have disliked only those who fed him bad peanuts and tobacco and exhibited a passionate devotion for his keeper who had petted him, but what Gunda really did was to attack everybody who attempted to enter the cage and made the process of feeding him exceedingly dangerous. All keepers were equally distasteful to him, so that it finally became the duty of the Zoological society to have him shot. His skeleton and skin are now to be found in the Museum of Natural History, while his anatomy was presented to the College of Physicians and Surgeons for use in research work.

Not only is the elephant not to be trusted, but other animals show a lamentable tendency to eat the hand that feeds them. For instance, in the opinion of Mr. Hornaday, nothing is quite so dangerous as a pet bear; and for this reason the keepers in the Bronx park are requested not to take the slightest chance with any of the animals. A man may feed a bear an apple two hundred and sixty times with perfect safety, and on the two hundred and sixty-first time have his hand chewed off. Such an accident occurred not long ago when a keeper tried to pose a bear for the park photographer, the bear attacking the keeper and devouring his right hand.

While a number of accidents are to be expected in the business of exhibiting wild animals, the Bronx park has been unusually fortunate in this respect. Only two disasters have occurred to visitors within the past twenty years, and one of these was entirely the fault of the victim. Before a policeman could reach him, a drunken man placed his hand within the cage of a large polar bear, who cordially accepted it. The second case was due to another vicious elephant who succeeded in breaking an iron knob off his door and flinging it out among a Sunday afternoon crowd of visitors, striking a small boy in the face and cutting him. The Bronx has a very good record for a park containing many dangerous animals and having an annual patronage of nearly two million visitors.

Bronx park, while belonging to the city of New York, is under the exclusive direction of the New York Zoological society. The city appropriates two hundred thousand dollars annually for the maintenance of the grounds, animals and buildings, and the rest of the money required is obtained from the gate receipts. Two days each week an admittance charge of twenty-five cents is made, in addition to which the society runs two park restaurants, a boat pavilion on the lake and supplies a number of riding animals for the purpose of making money. The original idea was to use this money for buying new animal collections, but the expense of maintenance and repair is so great that the city appropriation does not begin to cover it and the profits of the amusement business go to make up the deficit.

The animal collections are usually amplified by the contributions of private citizens or members of the society. Since valuable animals are always dying of old age, or of various diseases resulting from captivity, it is necessary to be buying new ones all the time. During the past two years, of course, the European war has greatly interfered with the transporting of animals from Africa, so that all the new species have come either from private collections in England or from South America. Even under normal conditions, it seems, it is difficult to procure shipping space for wild animals, most of the American shippers refusing to transport them on passenger vessels. On the other hand, the German shippers in the past did not object to carrying animals for any distance on any kind of steamers, so that Hagenbeck, the famous German capturer of wild animals was allowed to obtain a monopoly on the animal import business.

There are now forty-six hundred specimens in the zoo. This number is apt to fluctuate between forty-two hundred and five thousand during the year, the lowest number always occurring in January of each year. New York, because of its cold damp winters, is hard on the animals who are particularly subject to lung and bronchial troubles; and the cold winter rains, which last for days at a time, in which the cages become permeated with dampness, always take their annual toll of animal life. These rains are also responsible for a great deal of animal rheumatism. A pygmy elephant named Congo was mercifully shot last year because he had become lame and deformed with rheumatism, resulting from the unusually severe climate.

Another difficulty in taking care of acclimated species is the change of food, which sometimes disagrees with them. It is almost impossible, for example, to maintain a gorilla in this country. An agent of the society obtained a female gorilla in Africa and brought her safely all the way to the zoo, only to have her die one year after her entrance. During the time she was the subject of medical experiment, every known method being employed to save her life. She was given the tuberculin test three times, each time registering negative, after which doses of arsenic, strychnine and iron were poured down her throat and she was administered extracts of thyroid and thymus glands. Every kind of possible food was provided her, but without tempting her to eat, and finally she died of exhaustion and what an autopsy proved to be cage paralysis.

The animals are also subject to epidemics of toxic gastro-enteritis, an intestinal disorder, in which the mortality is as high as 95 per cent; the sea lions are constantly having ptomaine poisoning due to eating putrid fish which get into their food supply undiscovered, and the larger animals often have tapeworms, particularly the polar bears and rhinoceroses. In view of these recurring afflictions, the utmost care must be exercised in buying food for the animals in order to ascertain that it is fresh, and this is a considerable item of zoo expense. The food bill for last year was $36,785, which covered the cost of eighty-five different kinds of food, the food required to feed one elephant costing four dollars a day.

Next to Coney Island, the Bronx Zoo park is the most popular institution in New York for children. This is not a matter of accurate statistical record, but a conclusion based upon the observation of the Zoological society. Here comes the infant New Yorker in his baby carriage when his fists are small to hold peanuts, accompanied by his mother or nurse, who sit on the park benches and embroider diligently. A few years later he is riding his velocipede past the great yak's cage, feeding popcorn to the bears and wading in the Bronx lake which winds through the park. Although several miles from the downtown section of the city, the east side is well represented by a large number of foreign children on non-payment days, who through the animal houses and park benches, eating large portions of peanuts and chattering in a dozen different languages.

Although hundreds daily visit the park, sometimes bringing their lunches, almost always buying packages of peanuts, popcorn and candy, it is interesting to note that there is no waste paper or refuse left on the grass or in the woods. This is due to the rigorous campaign, waged by the society with the co-operation of the city police against the throwing of waste paper. For many years it had been against the law to distribute refuse and cast waste paper on city property, but the law had never been enforced. When a policeman did make an arrest on such a charge, he was reported by the court as being too conscientious. Then the mayor evidenced an interest in the cause, and suddenly there occurred dozens of arrests throughout the city of park vandals, caught in the act of growing waste paper. Followed a period of fining every guilty pedestrian, and as a consequence today no city has any cleaner or better kept parks than New York.

But the proletariat are not the only ones who enjoy the Bronx park. Here also come men of science to study one of the best collections of animal specimens in America, as well as a private collection of horns, antlers and mounted heads that is reported to be the finest in the world. Zoological research work is constantly going forward, one of the latest methods being the taking of moving pictures showing the habits of certain species. This is done by the use of mercury-vapor lights at night. Some of the most recent films showed several species of tree toads, their habits, their throats distended in the effort of singing and five different species of snakes in the act of emerging from the eggs, as well as the feeding habits of several small reptiles and animals.

Thus perhaps science is the greatest beneficiary of the zoo. In addition to studying rare species of animals, the medical profession is always obtaining new information concerning diseases by the observation and treatment of sick animals and the dissection of the many who die. So that the zoo is an institution of many uses.

Instant Postum

This pure food-drink is made of wheat, roasted with a bit of wholesome molasses. It has a rich, snappy flavor much like that of high-grade Java coffee, yet it contains no caffeine—the drug in coffee—nor other harmful element.

Freedom from caffeine gives Nature right of way to rebuild and revitalize the mental and physical forces.

There are two forms of Postum: The original Postum Cereal must be boiled; Instant Postum, a soluble form, is made in the cup by adding boiling water—ready instantly. Some prefer one, some the other; they are equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same.

ONE-LEGGED DRIVER IN AGAIN AFTER CAUSEWAY SMASH

For the second time within a fortnight, Alfred Griffin, one-legged motorist of La Crosse, is in a cell at Central police station, following a smash-up on the causeway, in which Griffin wrecked his automobile and narrowly escaped serious injury. The accident occurred Saturday night. Griffin drove his car into a telephone post.

Griffin this morning was charged with driving while intoxicated and was to be arraigned before Judge Hunt this afternoon. Two weeks ago he was arrested for a similar offense and fined $17.50. At that time Judge Hunt warned him that the court would be lenient if he appeared again.

Just one of the traffic law violators appeared in court this morning, but there was a list of eight Saturday afternoon. Herbert E. Hauser pleaded not guilty to running without dimmers this morning. His trial was set for July 27 at 4 p. m.

Saturday's octette, their charges and the disposition of the cases follows:

J. A. Beckstad, leaving car at left-hand curb, fined $3.50.

L. F. Easton, no lights, $3.50.

George Shimshack, speeding, pleaded not guilty, trial set for July 25, 4 p. m.

V. W. Horner, no lights, $3.50.

John Hofweber, passing street car unloading passengers, discharged when Patrolman Wermuth failed to identify him as driver.

TWO DEATHS TOLL OF HEAT WAVE IN CITY ON SUNDAY

the boy, located it with a clam-drag and drew it to the surface.

Police Called Late

Owing to the fact that telephone service to Barron's island had been deranged by the Saturday night storm, it was impossible to reach La Crosse, and it was nearly an hour before the police arrived on the scene after the accident. They brought Frank and a pulmotor. Patrolman Frank Wolfe and Chief John H. Weber superintended the search for the body, which was further delayed by the fact that bystanders declared Spears had gone down above the bar. After an hour's futile search above the sand-bar, the drag was let down below, and the first attempt brought the body to the surface. The body was four rods down-stream from the edge of the bar.

Harry Spears was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Spears. His father and brother are employed at the Grosch and Mader ice house where the tragedy occurred. The victim has been working at the Kroner roofing plant. He was born in La Crosse, July 2, 1897. Four brothers and a sister, beside his parents survive. They are William, Henry and David of La Crosse, and Edward of Circle, Mont. The sister is Miss Sarah Spears, La Crosse.

Harry Spears was a nephew of Joseph Spears, well-known riverman, who was found dead in the water at his skiff-ferry two years ago this summer.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home, and at 2:30 from the First Presbyterian church. Rev. D. C. Jones will officiate. Burial will take place at Oak Grove cemetery.

Railroader Drops Dead

Sitting on a bench in front of the Foley house, 501 Mill street, discussing the heat, William Allen, 33, St. Paul, dropped dead without a word at 9 o'clock last night. Allen was talking with "Dutch" Leckett, Minneapolis, an engineer on the river division, when suddenly he broke off in the midst of a sentence and slipped from the bench to the ground. He was dead before Leckett could reach him.

Dr. G. W. Lueck was called, but he said death had been instantaneous, due to heart trouble. Allen had come yesterday afternoon from a hot run from Minneapolis on his Milwaukee road engine.

His family was found at a summer resort near St. Paul and notified of his death. The body was to be taken to St. Paul today.

Kidney Disorder

(BY DR. V. M. PIERCE)

"The most simple methods are usually the most effective ones when treating any disorder of the human system." The mere drinking a cup of hot water each morning, plenty of pure water all day, and a little anuric before every meal has been found the most effective means of overcoming kidney trouble. Death would occur if the kidneys did not work day and night in separating poisons and uric acid from the blood.

The danger signals are backache, depression, aches and pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headache, chilliness, rheumatic twinges, swollen joints or gout.

Since it is such a simple matter to step into your favorite drug store and obtain anuric, as every druggist dispenses it, any one who earnestly desires to regain health and new life will waste no time in beginning this treatment.

YOUNG ATHLETE OF HIGH SCHOOL HAS WEDDING ROMANCE

The marriage of Louis Kulcynski, famous high school foot ball athlete, and Miss Flow Stafford, Hutchinson, Kas., announced today, discloses a romance of school days in which the interference of inexorable school regulations interposed delays that culminated this afternoon with the arrival of Mrs. Kulcynski to join her young husband in a home in this city.

Deeply in love, the young people started an elopement early in the last school year, but upon learning that if his marriage became known he could not complete his school course, Mr. Kulcynski decided to keep it a secret from all but their immediate families. The bride's parents felt that under the circumstances it would be better for Mrs. Kulcynski to remain at home with them until the announcement could be made, a plan that was followed until the husband had established himself in a position and provided a home for his bride.

Claim Russ Losses 262,000

BERLIN, via wireless to Sayville, July 17.—Russian losses in killed alone since the beginning of the present offensive until July 1, total more than 262,000 the semi-official news agency estimated today.

"According to official reports issued at Petrograd since the beginning of the Russian offensive until July 1, the killed included 14,900 officers, among them seventeen generals and twenty-nine regimental commanders, and 248,000 men," the news agency stated.

Take 13,000 Prisoners

PETROGRAD, July 17.—About 13,000 prisoners were captured by the Russians in Sunday's fighting in Volhynia, the war office announced today.

The prisoners counted today include 314 officers and 12,637 men. The Russians captured thirty guns, a great number of machine guns and other material.

the British at one point penetrated enemy third line trenches.

These dispatches showed that the British advance carried the forward lines to the outskirts of both the villages of Pozieres and Martinpuich, two of the most strongly defended German posts before Bapaume.

The assault was begun just before daylight on a moonlight night. It followed an artillery attack, which for intensity, if not duration, exceeded the bombardment that marked the beginning of the Anglo-French offensive two weeks before.

British guns blotted out enemy works, leaving only ruined redoubts from behind which German machine gunners raked the attackers until blown to pieces by bombs.

Slavs Do Well in Champagne

PARIS, July 17.—Russian troops in action on the French Champagne front counter-attacked successfully last night, inflicting heavy losses on the Germans, the war office stated today. There has been no important fighting in the region of the Somme.

The French continue to make progress west of Fleury, on the Verdun front, capturing three machine guns.

In Lorraine, two German attacks against a French position southeast of Nomeny were repulsed.

Fight Seesaws

Under a blanket of fog Saturday night, says the French official statement issued Sunday afternoon, the Germans in the region south of the Somme hurled violent attacks against La Maisonnette and the village of Biaches, recently captured by the French, and took those positions by surprise.

The French, however, immediately launched a vigorous counter attack, and recaptured both places.

North of Chilly the Germans penetrated the first line trenches of the French, but were later ejected.

BERLIN, July 17.—Four British attacks in the region of Ovillers and Babent-le-Petit, north of the river Somme, broke down Saturday afternoon in front of the German lines, says the German official statement issued on Sunday. South of the Somme, German troops occupied a portion of the village of Biaches after lively fighting, the statement adds, and French attacks near Barleux and in the region of Estrees were repulsed with heavy losses to the attackers. The French entered the German first lines southwest of Thiaumont work, where fighting continues.

(The above statement was issued fully a day after the British war office announced German first line defenses had been pierced in the regions mentioned in the Berlin announcement. No mention of the German claims is made in the British statement today.)

Mr. Hirsch, manager of transportation of the operating company, gave corroborative indication that the return is at hand when he announced no visitors will be permitted to board the vessel after tomorrow.

Hirsch told the United Press he expects the Bremen in a few days and that she will come here or to New York, though he indicated Baltimore will be the port.

Fears of spies and bombs seemed to be strongly upon the crew and managers of the Deutschland today.

The vigilance of the past week had increased. Even police officers, who had been permitted free entrance to her pier, were barred, a special watchman headed off messengers and mail carriers; all night the powerful searchlight on the tug Timmins lay nervously over the waters to pick up launches and to search the shore for unwelcome watchers.

"Drive them away, quick," was the shout from the Timmins to the police on shore when the searchlight revealed newspaper "spies." "For heavens sake, don't let them stay there."

Messenger Denied Entrance

A special delivery messenger arrived at the Eastern Forwarding dock with a small package, presumably a gift from an admirer to Captain Koenig.

"You can't come in here," said the German guard, abruptly. "I won't take that package."

The messenger was surprised. "Will you write that down, or I'll get in trouble."

And, the guard wrote it, unmistakably with the added information that there is no use trying to deliver any package at the dock.

The inference from this generally is that the Deutschland folk fear the ship is in danger of being destroyed.

rate building. Will stopped a moment and looked around. He gulped for a moment and forced back the tears.

Then he stepped slowly forward. It was the first time in more than five months that he has been allowed to walk over that grass or any other without a bailiff at his side.

He straightened up and threw back his shoulders. His mother and Mrs. Taylor came along and the three stepped through the shadows back into the jail where Orpet has spent so many weary weeks. They had gone to his cell for the last time to pack up his few belongings.

"Not a word," he said, when asked for a statement. A little later, however, he relented to the extent of saying:

"I'm going to the country. I've had a bad time, but my nerve is still with me. I'm just going to start in where I left off and make good. And I'm—I'm grateful to these friends who have stood by me."

Goes to Retreat

Will Orpet sought refuge from the 'limelight in the sunlight today.

With some of his relatives, Orpet was at one of the many "pine woods" in Wisconsin or northern Illinois. His parents were silent as to his whereabouts, admitting only that he had gone to the woods.

"Will was in the public eye for six months," Orpet's father said. "What he does now is nobody's business. He is tired of the limelight."

Reports that perjury indictments would result from the trial were scoffed at by authorities today. The state admitted "it was true."

Waukegan puzzled itself today over the identity of the one juror in the case who held out three ballots for conviction. The other eleven had sworn not to tell and, as a result, each of them was mentioned, one way or another today, as the one who voted against acquittal.

EPIDEMIC FALLS OFF OPENING OF AMUSEMENT PLACES IS CONSIDERED

NEW YORK, July 17.—Encouraged by the steady decline in the number of new cases of infantile paralysis, city authorities today discussed the advisability of reopening recreation centers and play streets, but decided to take no action for a few days.

Fourteen deaths were reported up to 10 o'clock today, against seventeen yesterday. Total deaths since the epidemic started are 400.

Ninety-five new cases were reported today against ninety-six yesterday. Cases reported to date total 2,054.

In a letter containing about fifteen pages, postmarked New Duluth, Minn., the Dalton woman gives an unabridged history of her life, and reiterates her plea for aid from Mr. Jolivette.

The county clerk will again try to locate the woman.

YOUNG CARPENTER AT VIROQUA IS STRUCK BY BOLT

VIROQUA, Wis., July 17.—(Special.)—Albert Sidle, a young carpenter, was probably fatally injured when struck by lightning Friday afternoon while engaged in repairing the roof of a barn on the Paul Hanson farm, a few miles west of Viroqua.

Sidle fell a distance of fifteen feet onto the barn floor. His skull was fractured. He was brought to the Mason home here Saturday.

Injured By Hay Fork

Lewis Lewison, elderly man residing on the Suttle farm, was seriously injured Friday afternoon when a heavy hay fork, which was suspended under the roof of the barn, fell on his head and shoulders. He was knocked unconscious.

Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Mock Sad-all, who have been here at various times at the head of stock companies, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Brown. They will spend a week here and will put on a vaudeville act at the Air Dome the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Nettie Kleinke of Chicago will arrive tomorrow for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lawrence have returned home from a visit at Waukegan and Viola.

The Home circle enjoyed a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. J. Henry Bennett Friday evening.

BIG SUMS ARE PROPOSED FOR BADGER CITIES IN PUBLIC BUILDINGS ACT

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The public buildings bill, carrying a total of $35,000,000, was introduced in the house today, despite President Wilson's announced opposition. It is not expected the bill will become a law this session.

The bill contains an item of $4,250,000 additional to $1,750,000 heretofore authorized for a postoffice site in Chicago; an authorization of $1,000,000 for a site in Kansas City, Mo.; $500,000 for a site at Fort Worth, Texas.

There is $170,000 for a building on a site already owned at Paris, Texas; $55,000 for a building at Newton, Iowa.

The following increases are among those authorized:

Postoffice, Milwaukee, $100,000; Minneapolis, $100,000.

New buildings are authorized in the following towns, where sites are now owned or authorized:

Borough of the Bronx, New York, $550,000; Oelwein, Iowa, $40,000; U. S. Marine hospital, San Francisco, $600,000.

The following authorizations are made for the purchase of sites and buildings:

Postoffices—Grand Rapids, Wis., $70,000.

The bill authorizes sale of part of sites at Faribault, Minn., to the city.

VIROQUA WOMAN DIES IN HOSPITAL HERE AFTER YEAR'S ILLNESS

Mrs. Nettie Peterson, wife of P. S. Peterson, a Viroqua farmer, died yesterday morning at a local hospital, of heart disease and a complication of other ailments. Her husband was at her bedside at the time of her death. Mrs. Peterson has been ill for more than a year. A week ago she came to La Crosse for treatment. She was 36 years of age.

Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sum of Viroqua, Mrs. Peterson is survived by two daughters, Hilma, 12, and Gladys, 2. Five brothers and a sister also mourn her death.

Funeral services will be held from the Sime residence in Viroqua Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. H. C. Smeby of the Synod church will officiate.

JURYMAN ILL AND THE DAHL INQUEST GOES OVER INDEFINITELY

Owing to the illness of one of the jurymen the inquest to determine responsibility for the death of Mrs. Catherine Dahl, 74-year-old woman mysteriously slain by an automobile a fortnight ago, was not resumed this afternoon. No date for its continuation was made public today at the office of the district attorney, and Prosecutor Schlachach said that he was still busy upon his investigation of the case.

PROPOSED VISIT OF WILSON TO RESORT IS GOOD ADVERTISING

MINOQUA, Wis., July 17.—Come all you press agents and you shall hear the story of Gust Nolan, manager of the Northern hotel and summer resort of this city. There have been rumors and rumors for several days that President Wilson was going to spend two weeks in the northern Wisconsin woods this summer, incognito.

No one had any definite information until Gust came to bat today and said he had received a letter from the presidents' physician, making reservations for four rooms during two weeks in August.

"All of my rooms were taken but it is possible that I can arrange to take care of the president," said Gust as he pinned the leather medal on his chest.

HUGHES TO SEE COMMITTEE

BRIDGEHAMPTON, N. Y., July 17.—Candidate Hughes will go to New York Thursday when the new campaign committee meets with National Chairman Wilcox to discuss dates and places for Hughes' speeches on the coming western tour.

Only one engagement has been definitely made, that at Detroit August 7.

TEN MILLIONS GONE FIVE LIVES LOST IN SOUTHERN STORM

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Ten million dollars of property destroyed, five persons known dead, hundreds injured and missing, railroad traffic and telephone and telegraph communication demoralized, is the toll of the floods sweeping the Carolinas and Virginia, known to date. Meager, disjointed details are drifting into Washington over crippled lines of communication. The floods are the result of the hurricane of wind and rain which struck the South Atlantic coast Thursday lifting rivers and streams far over their banks.

Asheville Hard Hit

Asheville, the famous resort city, is hard hit. The French river has broken its course near there, flooding factories and homes in the lower part of the city. Two persons were drowned attempting to put food into the upper story of the Glenn Rock hotel. Many are marooned in their residences along the river.

Without Lights

Asheville was without lights last night, and water is flowing in swift streams down many of the streets of the lower city. The Southern railroad and the buildings in the vicinity are flooded to a depth of six feet.

The Southern railroad today practically suspended traffic south of Washington. A second bridge over the Charlotte division went out at 3 a. m. Trains were idle beyond Salisbury, and no wires are in operation south of that point. Atlanta being reached by way of Chicago and New Orleans.

Dams Reported Collapsed

Western North Carolina is reported facing a serious situation. Lake Toxaway's big dam and two dams at Hendersonville are reported to have collapsed, setting free hundreds of tons of water.

The Southern railway bridge over the Catawba at Belmont, N. C., was washed away, carrying eighteen men into the river. It has not yet been learned whether they were saved.

The missing reported to Washington in scattering dispatches are:

H. P. Griffin, road supervisor, Charlotte.

Joseph Kildan, resident engineer, Charlotte.

C. S. Barbee, section foreman, Charlotte.

D. C. Thompson, section foreman, Belmont.

W. L. Fortune, section foreman, king's Mountain, N. C.

G. C. Kale, E. C. Gully, C. W. Klutts, derickmen, Charlotte.

Andrew Scott, Tom Davis, Daniel Heath, Sloan Adams and Will Cathey, colored laborers.

A. B. Blackwell, Western Union line crew boss.

William Cooker and R. Ball, Asheville, and three linemen.

Bridges Collapse

The Seaboard Air Line bridge over the Catawba river at Mount Holly, N. C. has collapsed, as has that over the Catawba on the Salisbury-Ashville line.

An earth fill at the Lookout power dam, near Shelby, broke and the East Mondo, West Mondo, Lilladoun and Alspauga cotton mills are under water. A wall of water forty feet high was reported rushing down from Lookout Shoals last night.

Crop Damage Frequent

Great crop damage to the surrounding country is reported from Spartanburg, S. C., due to heavy rains of the last forty-eight hours.

Practically all railway traffic in southwest Virginia and eastern West Virginia was tied up yesterday by slides and washouts.

Mrs. G. W. Vanderbilt Hero

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 17.—Floods that devastated Baltimore, a village on the Vanderbilt estate, have left 500 persons homeless and have enrolled Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt and her daughter, Cornelia, among the heroines in this section. Personally in charge of the rescue work on the estate the mother and daughter took many grave risks, often being compelled to wade through water to their waists to save themselves.

Trains Lost

Two Cincinnati bound trains, the Carolina special, which left here Saturday night and another which left last night, are "lost" as a result of the flood which swept eastern North Carolina with the loss of fifteen lives.

CLIFTON, Tenn., July 17.—A million acres of corn and peanuts in the Tennessee river valley, from Chattanooga to Paducah, Ky., is today under water from from four to fifteen feet as a result of the flooded Tennessee river. The loss is estimated at more than a million dollars. The corn crop is ruined.

Fear For Rescue Party

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 17.—Grave fears were felt here this afternoon that a rescue party attempting to save the twenty men engulfed in the Catawba river when a southern railway trestle went down last night, has been lost.

The boat carrying the rescuers capsized, and, like the men in last night's accident, none of the rescuers have been found.

LONELY "DRUMMER" IS BURIED BY HIS ONLY TWO FRIENDS AT PRAIRIE

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., July 17.—(Special.)—With no mourners other than his only two friends in America, F. D. Hatch of McGregor and J. Erickson, and four strange traveling men who had been asked to assist the friends as pall bearers, Paul Pluder was given a lonely burial in the Catholic cemetery at Prairie du Chien yesterday.

He was a traveling salesman and to the merchants to whom he sold goods only an average knight of the grip except that he had an unusual air of good breeding and spoke with a foreign accent. To the two men he made his friends he was an interesting personality. He had traveled in many lands, was a man of culture, a fine musician and a comely person of some ability. Through friendly intercourse with him they learned his story. He had been brought up in Germany as the youngest son of a family of wealth and prominence. After reaching manhood he decided the fatherland held no opportunities for younger sons of the upper classes and left home to find his chance elsewhere. He went first to South Africa, then to Japan and after that nearly around the world before coming to America. Until the war broke out he returned home every two years but has not been back since. His eldest brother who inherited the large family estate, is a surgeon in the German army.

Six months ago Mr. Pluder learned that he was the victim of cancer of the stomach. He consulted with the Drs. Mayo but found his case was not operable and some weeks ago came to the sanitarium at Prairie du Chien to be nursed until relief came in death. It was not until a few days before he died that he notified his friends of his whereabouts and asked them to come to him. With them he left instructions about his burial, the letters to be sent to Germany and his will in which he leaves several thousand dollars to an unmarried sister in Germany. It is anticipated that the remains will be ordered shipped to Germany as soon as the relatives receive word of the death.

RURAL BANKERS PLAN BIG FIGHT ON PAR CLEARING

Country bankers of the United States are planning a vigorous campaign against the new par clearing system of the federal reserve banks, which went into effect July 15, according to E. M. Wing, president of the Batavian National bank and treasurer of the American Bankers' association, who returned today from Washington, where a committee of rural bankers met to consider ways of opposing the new regulation.

It was found impossible to institute legal proceedings, Mr. Wing said today, to head off the enforcement of the law before the day set for its effectiveness. But after consultation with eminent legal authorities in New York, the bankers decided that they have a case, and agreed to keep up the fight. They will attempt to have the law changed by congress, and failing that, will take the matter into the courts.

M'GREGOR FACULTY SECURED FOR FALL

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 17.—(Special.)—The three vacancies in the corps of McGregor teachers have been filled. Miss Christine Henkes of Monona was elected to the position of third grade teacher to succeed Miss Adah Albert. Miss Marie Christopherson of Ocheyedan to the sixth grade to succeed Miss Doby Leele and Miss Selma Johnson of Madison, Wis., to the position of music and English teacher in the high school. The teaching corps as now complete is: Miss Ida Townsend, first grade; Miss Daisy Peterson, second grade; Miss Christine Henkes, third grade; Miss Neva Mackie, fourth grade; Miss Effie Anderson, fifth grade; Miss Marie Christopherson, sixth grade; Miss Margaret Guider, seventh grade; Miss Pearl Finch, eighth grade and domestic science; Miss Mabel Barton, principal; Miss Selma Johnson, music and English; O. J. Haney, manual training; J. N. Dahm, assistant principal; Thomas R. Roberts, superintendent.

The body of Thomas McAndrews who died July 11 at the county home for the poor at Elkader, was brought to McGregor for burial yesterday. Mr. McAndrews was 87 years old. He formerly lived at North McGregor. His widow aged sixty-six, who is also an inmate of the home, accompanied the steward to McGregor and attended the lonely burial in the Catholic cemetery.

Chautauqua Ends
One of the most successful chautauquas that has been held in McGregor closed Thursday with afternoon and evening concerts by Quintana and his band.

The "Arbutus," a line pleasure boat from Minneapolis, tied up at the dock here for a day. The party on board included Mrs. Dixon of Burlington who is contributing to a number of magazines. They took an auto drive about McGregor, went to Pike's Peak and the Heights and expressed the opinion that the scenery here was the finest they had seen in their travels.

COPSEY'S PLAYING SPELLS VICTORY OVER GALESVILLE

Striking out eleven Galesville batters Fay Copsey yesterday afternoon practically won his own game with the W. B. U. Athletes against Galesville.

In the ninth inning, with the score 1 to 0 against his team, he drove out a hit that drove in the tying score and in the next frame the locals pushed over a winning tally.

In the ninth, Sather hit safely, was sacrificed to second, and came home on Copsey's smashing single.

Kirchels opened the tenth with a single, stole second and third and Obare walked, stealing second. Davis hit to Oliver, who failed to get Kirchels at the plate.

Galesville put up a belated appearance at League park and the game was an hour late in starting.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., July 17.—John R. Silliman, former acting consul at Saltillo, on instructions from the state department took the oath of office as a United States consul before W. P. Blockner, consul at Piedras Negras.

Silliman will be assigned to the consulate at Guadalajara.

PLANES WHICH WILL BE SEEN IN BATTLE IN AIR IN RACE MEET AT FAIR GROUNDS

Emil Laird, noted loop-the-loop aviator in his bi-plane, and Jean Domenjoz in his war monoplane over the Chicago lake front. The portrait is that of Laird's flying face.

La Crosse is going to be the aviation capital of the United States tomorrow and Wednesday when Jean Domenjoz, famed Swiss loop-the-loop monoplane flyer, and Emil Laird, amazing American "looper" who pins his faith to the tractor biplane, give two exhibitions each at the fair grounds in conjunction with the races.

The "battle from the sky" spectacle the aviators will stage is certain to prove most realistic. Both men will drop real bombs from their machines high in the air, directed against a fort to be erected on the infield of the race track. The fort will have a supply of dynamite aerial bombs that will be showered towards the aviators in the sky being directed and fired at a safe distance by an operator at the key of an electric circuit breaker.

Laird Not Yet 19
Laird's presence here will be most interesting to the young people as he is not yet 19 years of age, being the youngest aviator in the world in his line of work. He is an aerial genius and experts predict he will be the foremost aviator in the country within another year. No other aviator ever looped at an altitude of 7,000 feet above the sea level as Laird did at the Elks' convention in Butte, Mont., July 4.

Secretary J. C. Simpson of the Minnesota state fair will be among the fair secretaries who are coming here to witness the aerial battle stunt.

Laird was expected at noon today from Montana and Domenjoz, coming from the opposite direction, following his great monoplane, should show up before evening. Domenjoz always travels on the same train with his famous machine, never leaving it for an hour.

LATONIA CHAMPION WINS RENEWAL OF THE CHICAGO DERBY

HAWTHORNE RACETRACK, July 17.—Dodge, Latonia champion, a bay colt owned by Weber & Ward, won the renewal of the American derby and a $7,000 prize at Hawthorne Saturday by six lengths from Faux Col, with Franklin a third.

The time was 2:04 3-5, a new track record for the distance.

Approximately 25,000 spectators saw the race.

Three lengths separated second and third. Churchill, Foxhall Keene's entrant, was fourth, five lengths behind Franklin.

The betting on the derby varied from the early expectations, Foxhall Keene's entry, Churchill, getting so much backing that he was established second choice at 2 to 1. Faux Col, the Canadian colt, being the "outsider" at 4 to 1, with the Ward entry always odds-on favorite.

SENATORS BUNCH HITS AND WIN OVER CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., July 17.—Bunching seven of their ten hits in three innings, Washington defeated Cleveland here on Sunday, 4 to 2.

Singles by Williams and Jamieson, a double steal in which Williams scored, and McBride's triple brought two in the second. Shanks' double after Williams had singled registered another in the fourth, while hits by Shanks and Jamieson brought Washington's final score in the eighth.

Cleveland scored in the first on Wambagans' single, Speaker's single and Roth's sacrifice fly, and again in the fifth on Daly's triple and Coveleskie's single. Score:

Washington . . . 021000010—4 10 0
Cleveland . . . 100010000—2 10 0

Batteries—Boehling and Henry; Coveleskie and Daly.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero
Larry Doyle. Larry caught an infield fly so short that Gonzales of St. Louis, waiting on third did not even try to score. But Larry's whip was feeling good and he shot the ball toward home. It went wild. Gonzales walked in and had a cold drink before the ball came back from the stand. It was the winning run.

If quantity counts, the Brooklyn-Cubs game was the biggest bargain of the season. It was a sixteen inning 7-7 tie. The Dodgers used fourteen men and got eighteen hits; the Cubs used eighteen men and got fourteen hits.

The idle Red Sox moved to second place when Washington defeated Cleveland.

Only three and one-half games between the leading Yankees and the Tigers in sixth place.

Cincinnati used three pinch hitters in the game with the Braves and each popped to Maranville.

"If I go to Cincinnati, I'll be boss," says Christy Mathewson, thus refusing to go until assured of non-interference from the owners.

MATTY SLATED TO MANAGE REDS BUT DEAL IS OPEN

CINCINNATI, O., July 17.—Christy Mathewson, famous pitcher of the New York Giants, is slated to manage the Reds, but the deal has not gone through yet, and may not be made. This was stated by Garry Hermann, president of the Reds before he went into session today with the Cincinnati club's board of directors.

SALLEE EXPECTED TO DON GIANTS' UNIFORM

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 17.—Harry Sallee, port-sider, for eight years mainstay of the Cardinal pitching corps probably will don a New York Giant uniform this afternoon. After denying for several days that he was negotiating with McGraw, Owner Britton admitted "Sal" had been sold. The sale price was variously estimated from $10,000 to $15,000. Britton refused to name the amount.

Cool As An Ocean Breeze

From the still, sweltering heat of mid-summer, light clothing and iced beverages offer little relief—what is needed is a BREEZE. You can have one—own your own private breeze, that you can turn on or off at will—if only you possess the supreme Summer comfort of an Electric Fan.

Let an ELECTRIC FAN Keep Your Home Cool

Just press the switch and feel the invigorating breeze set in motion—a breeze that will blow for hours without pause, at a cost of less than one cent an hour. Make up your mind now to be comfortable during the long, hot evenings and the sultry days. Then—come in and pick out the fan you wish. Prices $9.50 to $21.50.

HIS OPINION

BY NAPOLEON S. ZARICK

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

As Miss Carman walked down the avenue she held her skirts above her dainty patent leathers, and her head, with its jaunty hat, was held higher still, the color flaming high, too, in her round cheeks and showing off charmingly against the background of her chinchilla collar—which in itself was a marvel of height and elegance as well. The rustle of skirts, and the defiant, nodding plumes emphasized the annoyance in her voice.

"I shall resign from the club—that's all—and, what's more, I'll resign from every club I belong to! A woman's club—huh! A cat's club would be a better name! Nothing on earth would induce me to stay another day in the hateful thing, and I'll resign as soon as I can reach pen and ink to do it with. Every one of them is in league to see the whole thing fall because I've put my very heart and soul in it to make it go. Well, they'll be in a pretty mess when I give it all up! There's not another one who'd have worked as hard as I have, and the club will all go to pieces if this entertainment doesn't go through. I don't care—I'd be too glad for anything!"

She had overtaken a boy of seven or eight—a dirty little boy, with muddy shoes and worsted cap. Miss Carman's anger could not efface her interest in youngsters, and especially in a boy who scuffed his feet so attractively and who could balance a curved stick so cleverly when he was not rattling it against the fences he passed.

He was walking in a leisurely way that indicated ease of mind and plenty of time to get home before dinner. As she neared him, the stick wavered and fell back, but was quickly caught.

"I thought it was going to hit me," she said, and smiled. Then an irresistible desire to talk to this sturdy little fellow took possession of her. The more she thought of those clubwomen, the better she liked this boy.

He glanced at her and smiled shyly. Although her elegance dismayed him, he recognized a promise of comradeship.

"I know what that stick makes me think of," she said half to herself as she passed him. This was a subtle move, and worked admirably.

"What?" he asked, running a little, so as to catch up.

She exerted herself to hold the little fellow's interests. It was soothing to feel that somebody appreciated her efforts, even if it was only a little boy.

"Why," she said, looking ahead and speaking gravely—she had learned that to look to a new child acquaintance straight in the eye was to embarrass him—"why it makes me think of a bow, an Indian's bow, you know, that he strings up and shoots arrows with."

"It makes me think of one, too!" exclaimed the boy.

She showed a little, but imprecisely—so as not to seem to be accommodating him.

"Only," she went on, giving a swift glance at the stick and its owner, "it is sawed in a curve; it isn't a real rod bent to that shape. I don't believe I could string it up and use it for killing people."

"I could," he asserted. "I'm strong. Me an' the boys go down the woods sometimes an' chop down trees. One boy chops one side, an' another on t'other. Then we carry it off an' chop it up, an' sometimes we make bows an' play Indian. Once I went to the country."

"Indeed?" said Miss Carman in mild surprise, and she smiled down on him sympathetically.

The boy smiled back and showed a gap in his front teeth, with the promise of further incisors gleaming from his pink gum.

"Yes, an' I rode the pig, an' he threw me off in the pond, an' the ducks all flew up all over me, an' an'—" In his excitement he met her eyes again, and a sudden restraint fell on him. She felt that she had made a mistake to look at him then, so she said quietly:

"I don't believe you ever went to the zoo here." Then she gazed long and earnestly across the street, to give him time to recover.

"Yes, I have," he declared after a pause, and then he fell behind a little, rattling his stick again on an iron fence.

"Say, I went there once," he called, as the distance between them widened. She didn't turn. Should he let that lady go, thinking him such a baby that he hadn't ever been to the zoo. He ran up to her side. She knew children. She was sure he would come. "I say I have been there."

"Oh," she answered.

"Yes, me an' the boys went one day. There was a great big groundhog, as long as from here to that fence—the distance was about twenty feet—an' they had to put concrete under the dirt to keep him from gnawing out. But, say, he gnawed through everything. Say, did you ever go out with a lot of boys an' have em' treat you mean all day?"

"No," Miss Carman did not smile.

"But I've been with grown-up folks who did."

"Well, me an' the boys had fights all day. They wanted to pitch me into the mud all the time."

"Just like those grown-ups," said Miss Carman.

The boy looked at her for a moment in incredulous surprise. It was too deep a problem. He gave it up and went on:

"An' I said if they didn't stop I'd go home an' break up the whole gang."

Here he gave her a look to see if she had been paralyzed at his firmness. Her mouth was tightly set.

"Well, that's just what I said."

"Well, I bet you didn't do it, though."

"I'm just going home now to do it," she answered. His incredulity deepened.

"They ain't a speck o' mud on you," he announced after a critical survey.

"Well, what did you do?" said she, returning to his story.

"Well, they threw me into the creek once, but I wasn't afraid. They ain't no snake that can bite under water except water snakes, an' I hadn't seen any of them around, so I wasn't scared. I came out an' dared 'em all to fight, an' none of them would. Then I thought I'd miss a lot of fun if I went home an' left them, so I stayed an' helped to push another boy in. I'm head o' the gang now, an' I wouldn't be anything if I'd gone home that day."

"Thank you," said Miss Carman emphatically.

The boy looked up, surprised.

"Wat, me am?" he said with sudden politeness.

"So you thought you would have been lonesome if you had given it all up? You were pretty plucky to stick it out," she said.

"Maybe," he assented. Then he dropped behind to walk a low coping around a lawn.

Miss Carman was musing, and didn't miss him. Pluck, that was what she needed, good, American pluck and grit. She was acting in a manner frightfully indicative of the degeneration of that quality which had made her ancestors take their stand for liberty and which, more recently, had brought her father his millions. Should she let those women know they had "pushed her into the creek?" No, no, a hundred times no—she would "dare them all round" first and be "head of the gang" for her efforts.

She called to the boy as she turned in to her gate. He jumped down and ran to her, brandishing his curved stick.

"It would have been lonesome, wouldn't it to leave the gang—and cowardly besides?"

"You bet!" he assented. "It would have been worse'n having the small-pox almost."

Miss Carman went into the house laughing, and the boy made up his lost time by racing down the street and whistling the gang's rally cry through his missing teeth.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

LURED FROM HOME
RETURNS TO FIND
HIS WIFE DYING

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 17.—Lured from home by a false telephone call, Oscar D. McDaniel, county prosecuting attorney, returned to find his wife terribly meaten, apparently attacked while she slept. She died from her injuries in a local hospital this morning.

MOTHER OF SHARK VICTIM
COLLAPSES WHEN SHE HEARS OF SON'S DEATH

MATAWAN, N. J., July 17.—In a condition of utter collapse, Mrs. W. S. Fischer, mother of 25 year old Stanley Fischer, who met a terrible death Wednesday by shark bite, was removed from the train here Friday. She and her husband had been visiting friends in Cleveland when they were notified by a telegram that the son had "met with an accident."

They were not told of Stanley's heroic effort to rescue the body of Lester Stilwell, the shark's first victim here, nor of how he died after being brought ashore mangled by the man-killer. It was not until they reached Pittsburgh that they read in the papers of their son's death. Mrs. Fischer collapsed and medical aid was necessary to restore her.

CENSORSHIP TIGHTENED

COLUMBUS, N. M., July 17.—The censorship at the base camp has been noticeably strengthened. Sending out information of movements by the motor truck trains was banned and mention of the use of aeroplanes from here was forbidden. Shipments of large quantities of rations to the front has been resumed.
